CRi, formerly Community Residences, Inc., offers 14 Intermediate Care Facilities (homes) for adults with developmental disabilities throughout the Commonwealth of Virginia. Programs serve adults with moderate to severe intellectual disability

(developmental disability). 24-hour supervision and care is provided seven days a week. An on-site interdisciplinary team provides clinical services to meet the varying needs of residents. Services can include individual supervision, counseling, behavior management, medication management, medical care, community integration, and daily living skills training. Each community-based home serves five to seven individuals.
