Virginia Leukemia & Lymphoma Society offers family support groups.

Open communication is critical for coping with the feelings that arise during illness.

Family Support Groups feature sessions led by local healthcare professionals where you can share your concerns, fears, problems, and experiences in a comfortable and caring setting. For more information, call 804-673-5690 or toll-free at 800-766-0797.

Online Chats may be available to share experiences and offer support for people living with non-Hodgkin lymphoma or chronic myeloid leukemia and for young adults (aged 18-39) living with blood cancer. Each chat is moderated by an oncology social worker. For more information, see Online Chats.
