National Counseling Group (NCG) offers Medicaid Intensive In-Home Services (IIH). The program is a bundled mental health service encompassing intensive individual and family counseling, life skills activities, crisis intervention, behavior management and case management. A thorough evaluation is completed and a tailored intensive service plan (ISP) addresses each child and his or her individual and family needs.

National Counseling Group provides close collaboration with other involved agencies and providers.

Additionally, children and adolescents who are transitioning home from an out-of-home placement such as foster care, detention, or residential programs may be appropriate for services.
