Since 2004, the Davis Phinney Foundation has brought to life some of the most important programs, research, content, and events for those affected by Parkinson's disease. Our community included people living with Parkinson's, Parkinson's care partners, families and friends of those living with Parkinson's, physicians, and Parkinson's allied health professionals.

We all want a cure for Parkinson's. However, until that happens, we know that people are going to live a very long time with it; therefore the most important work we can do is to help them live well today. We do this by providing education, tools, resources, and inspiration that touch on every aspect of life: physical, emotional, intellectual, social, and financial. Our core values are to live well, inspire action, and connect the community.
